My dear Mr. Forman.

Sume time since I red in the Pall Mall Budget this advertisment.

"A new boot has been invented, and its inventor claims that it will last for ever. It is a triplicate sole. The first is ordinary leather, the second is studded with indiarubber capsules, and these capsules fit into a third coverng of leather."

Will you have the goodnes to purchase for me a pair of shoes of the mesure I indose to you, to pack them up in a small compas and send them to me as soon as convinient by the Colis-postal.

In case of not finding shoes
